

Bollinger (Malamute x Husky, 10 years old) 'Bolly', Lincolnshire in January 2018, had a cancerous lump removed and was poorly weeks after cancer surgery. His weight of 43kg dropped to 36kg. The wound was not healing.

Owner Alison commented on starting IminoHoney: 'The honey seems to be doing something positive. The wound is healing and the hair is growing back. Bolly is bouncing around and not stiffening up in the evenings as much as he was. We have also been having issues with him having an upset tummy and this has not happened since he has been having the honey every morning. He generally seems a much happier dog'.

In August: 'Bolly is doing really well. IminoHoney also helped out my cat after getting an infected cat bite. I think that it's brilliant and Bolly has it 3 times a week with his breakfast'.

Bolly given all clear at 6 month checkup. 1st October, 'I now swear by this honey. If any of the animals are under the weather they get some'.

Vet in Essex, April - 'I have 4 dogs on IminoHoney at the moment. All older dogs, all with tumours. All have noticed an improvement in general wellbeing. One dog, very much so, doing things it hadn't done for a couple of years like chasing squirrels! All tumours have also not grown further. I am making notes on all so can share case outcomes with you.'

June – 'The 3 dogs I'm using it in are all alive and doing well and the owners are very pleased. 2 of the dogs are particularly well and in 1 dog an Irish Setter, the owners say that they definitely notice a difference on the day she is given the honey. She has more energy and is generally brighter'. 3 further dogs case notes sent July – 3 treated and two responding.

Rocky, small dog aged 13 years and weight 9kg had multiple health problems including poor circulation and herniated cervical disks which prevented him being able to stand. Not an obvious cancer case but owner believed also had lung cancer and inflammation of spine improved by IminoHoney – incl. breathing problems.

He had neck surgery in September 2016 and in January 2017 started IminoHoney. In June he started to stand again and by September he was walking, eating, etc full of character mainly in the morning and the IminoHoney was stopped. The main effect of stopping the honey was that he had less strength in his legs and back, he still walks but got tired quickly and tended to fall down.
